Dr. Daniel Lerner came to see me this morning in connection with the study he is making, under the auspices of the Ford Foundation, of the reaction of various groups in France to European integration schemes.

Colonel Cusack, who has been head of Detachment "A" — the military unit assigned by the Army to this mission in connection with the EDC - called to say goodbye. He will probably be transferred to Washington.

We lunched at the Van Boetzelaers'. There was a numerous company, including my friend whom I much admire, the Indian Ambassador Malik. He is leaving shortly to become a Governor, probably of the Province of Assam, in India.

Teddy White spent a couple of hours with me this afternoon discussing various topics, including the shaky financial condition of "The Reporter". He has finished his long article on Germany for Collier's, which will appear in February or March.

Marthe de Fels came to tea this afternoon. She is leaving soon for Guatemala to collect photographs in connection with one of her future lecture tours.

The Slaters and Freddy Lyons came to dinner. We had a gay evening. The former couple had just arrived from Portugal, with which they were enchanted, and where Nelson thinks he has some shooting lined up for next autumn. Beth Rogers was my secretary for six months, and left to marry Freddy. They make a fine couple.
